Who Could Do More?

"I think these young people deserve credit . . . no one could have possibly done more," Miss Myrtle Gillman said.

"With so much unfavorable publicity about 'our young people' I'd like to point up the other side . . . there are so many wonderful things they do that go unrecognized."

Miss Gillman told the story this way:

"My Boxer Doberman dog had broken loose and was running down the middle of the highway. Eddie Nestor and Faye Johnson were driving in to South Bay. Faye saw the black dog running, but not soon enough to avoid hitting it. She stopped, got out, ran back and picked up the 60-pound dog, put him in the back seat of their car and from the vaccination tag number identified the owner as Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of the Holiday Inn in South Bay. They then called the Veterinarian and arranged for him to be at his office in Belle Glade, before going to the owners.

"They came by my house, took me with them to the Vet's office and stayed right there until they knew the dog was out of danger," Miss Gillman continued. "The day they brought my dog home, then picked me and the dog up for return visits to the Vet, staying again until they knew my Boxer was comfortable and all-right."

"I was greatly impressed with the integrity and concern of these young people. They certainly have qualities I don't have. An adult . . . and I think people should know some of the GOOD in our 'younger generation.'

MA Degree Work Is Done . . . Why The Fuss?

Couch Luke Thornton apparently has an aversion to marching down the aisle!

After five summers spent working toward his Master of Science and Administration Degree, Thornton recently became this degree in Umatilla Thursday night from Florida State University. He returned home last Friday night, and we're told, doesn't plan to go back to Tallahassee for tonight's exercises.

After earning his BS degree from Arkansas A & M University in Monticello, Arkansas in 1959, Thornton taught high school exercises.

He is back in Belle Glade to begin his tenth year as football and baseball coach as well as being History instructor at Belle Glade High School.

DOOZ & DONT'S OF SOCIAL

Uncle Sam's Health, Education and Poverty Department is concerned about the amount of mail they might receive from people who benefit by the "gravy train" of increased social security payments and medicare.

They have issued a list of things TO DO and NOT TO DO. We're giving these DONT'S—

If you're now receiving social security benefits, just continue to check your checks and don't worry. The 1965 increase benefits will be mailed you the later part of September for January thru August in October, November increase will be mailed;

If you now receive a check you need NOT do anything about your protection under the Health Insurance Program will get full information during September. October by mail describing what you will get effective July 1 of '66. You'll get a card telling all;

When you get the whole "DOOZ" and "DONT'S" you'll get a card for enrollment if you want to take out additional government hospital insurance;

If you've never worked under social security, you still may get some protection under the medicare plan;

You should wait until September 1st before bothering the social security office to make application.

DOOZ—

If you're now 56 or over and working under Social Security, it's desirable to make application for your benefits. You're then qualified for hospital help community committees will also serve as delegates to the convention. The ASC county committee will be chosen. The alternate committee men will also serve as alternate delegates to the convention. The committee will be held at the ASCS office located in the Palm Beach County Glades Office Bldg., Belle Glade at 1:30 p.m.

The county committee supports the ASCS office and is responsible for administering the price support, agricultural conservation, sugar, and other programs in the county. The county committee is also particularly responsible for keeping their neighbors informed about their programs.

Qualifications of persons eligible to hold office as committee members include eligibility to vote in the election and being a local resident. It is also highly desirable that nominees be currently active farmers or ranchers who are qualified for community committee work and who will be representative of the various sections and types of agriculture in the community.

in '66. They say, if no one will lose by paying for benefits as is possible;

If you're 72 or over and not getting benefits because of insufficient time working to qualify, should get in touch with the Social Security office right away. Your law has been changed and you may "get on the roll," a wife or widow also should look into this;

Widows 60-61 may choose to take benefits at 60 instead of at 62 — file immediately;

Students 18 to 22 whose benefits have been stopped, as well as those 15 intending to attend school and not get back payments to January — Apply at once.

SEVERELY DISABLED WORKER may collect insurance benefits if disability has lasted or is expected to last twelve months. You don't have to win, or be disabled forever.

Widows 60-61 who's remarried; 62 or over who were divorced after standing by their husbands 20 years or longer, may be rewarded; ask to be sure;

ANOTHER "DON'T" — If you're over 65 don't cancel any hospital or medical insurance you may now have.

Uncle's help doesn't start on health insurance until July 1, 1966.

MA Degree Work Is Done... Why The Fuss?

Coach Luke Thornton apparently has no aversion to marching down the aisle.

After five summer months working toward his Master of Science and Administration Degree, Thornton will receive this degree in absentia from Florida Institute of Technology, Florida State University. He returned home last Friday night, and we're told, doesn't plan to go back to Tallahassee for tonight's exercises.

After earning his BS degree from Arkansas A & M University in Monticello, Arkansas in 1958, Thornton bypassed the exercises, we're informed.

He is back in Belle Glade to begin his tenth year as football and baseball coach as well as being History instructor at Belle Glade High School.

John E. Shanks Back At Work After Accident

John E. Shanks, who was rescued from an untimely death by asphyxiation in a manhole, is back at work.

I made the regulation hydrogen sulfide capsule detection safety check in the manhole before going down.

I was in the hole at least five minutes with no ill effects.

When I pulled a plug

from a ten inch connecting line fumes came in rapidly with the flow of water and by the time I realized that gas was present, it was too late to get out.

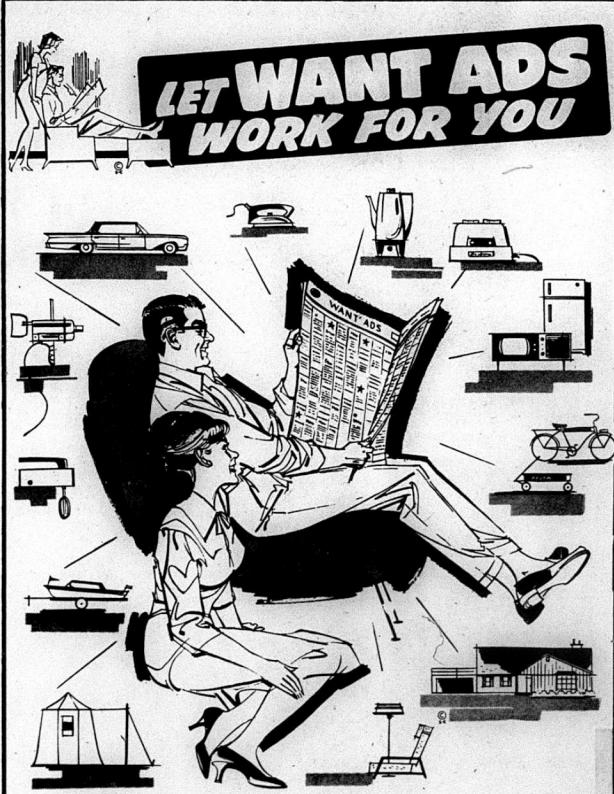

Mr. Shanks is employed by the Inter-County Construction Co., and is an experienced workman according to reports.

Willie Sims, Henry Bonds and Howard Davis are the three fellow workers who brought Mr. Shanks from the manhole.

The second issue of 250 SW Fifth, Belle Glade reportedly administered first aid before the arrival of the fire department with rescue equipment.

The HERALD reported last week incidents as given them by reputable sources. There was a mistake.

$6 Million Annually In Glades Celery

TOP — Hand tool used in placing bands of cloth to celery to be sure it was white when ready to harvest. BOTTOM — Showing one of the outside rows covered in the four-row section.

When these pictures were taken only bleached celery was shipped. Now, approximately 90% of the celery is green; there is a very little "Golden."

FIELD PACKING — After trucks bring the cut celery to the packing platform. It is washed in the barrels, stripped, graded and packed into crates ready to be trucked to the pre-cooling plant before shipping.

"Mule-train," a Glades invention, which with 50 to 60 workers cut, grade, wash and pack around 3,000 crates per day. The celery is placed on a chain carrier by the closer to the truck in the rear, which, in turn, trucks it to the precooler.

On his return to the field the empty truck brings preformed crates, which are placed on top, at rear to be assembled and passed by chute to the grading belt below.

thers and A. J. Sullivan were products of this early work of "Dr. Van" Brown Farm's agriculturist, seen down to advise with "Pop" Lord.

Commencing with half an acre, Little Doc and "Sally" went to one, then two, and finally hundreds of acres of this succulent stalk, after the Brown Boys had depleted available funds in their effort to find their own source of additional farm supplements to paper-making.

All hand-work and the use of the hand plow and shovel were the mainstays of seedbed preparation, planting, weeding, spraying, pulling of plants, setting, cultivation spraying & harvest. Papering, which was the rule, then was a cumbersome operation until semmechanical assistance was devised. Knapsacks on the back were forerunners of the 12 to 24-row tractor rigs now used for spraying.

Rube Goldberg is reported to have accomplished his greatest mechanical genius — celery growers have been more ingenious than Rube for they have mechanized in practice the use of seed beds reliable water control that enable this moisture consuming plant to have a water table with an allowable variance of one inch, up or down.

Planting with four-row machines, 10 inches to 28-inch rows, and a six to 28 inch distance, in the row, results in approximately one plant per square foot of land. Cultivating and spraying operations are designed to "carry" the multiple-row operation of the ninety-day field life of the plant.

The six-month period from seed to harvest, with the exception of the first year, the celery agricultural production is a 13-month effort.

Plants for the next season are up before the final June harvest of the previous year's fields.

Growers predict a near-doubling of labor costs for celery this coming season because of the half-to-do about stoop labor in cane & celery by theoretical "Do-Gooders" of the "Poverty Program" clique in Washington.

You'll pay more for celery hereafter while the "poverty programs" are rampant with your tax dollar after depletion by administration.

The Everglades Experiment Station in Belle Glade has specialists on varieties, fertilization, disease and pest control busy since the early fifties and have introduced some new varieties with one now "on the stove" and nearing a release date.

Dr. Thos. Forsee states that "we have wonderful opportunities for celery farmers in making field tests of our suggestions. Some time ago the farmers contributed towards building a modern greenhouse for use in various experiments."

The Florida celery grower is cooperatively engaged in seeking new varieties continuously.

Canal Tragedies Take Heavy Toll

"Very Successful"

Head Start Program

Terminated Here

Pahokee Girl And Mother Drown In Canal

A mother and her twelve year old daughter were drowning in the canal when a car left the road on State Road 80 9/10 mile west of Loxahatchee Wednesday A. M. at 11:15 and plunged into the canal.

Trooper J. C. Thomas of the West Palm Beach Highway Patrol investigating said Evelyn Johnson Dozier, 40, of West Palm Beach was the driver of the 1960 Chevrolet Corvair and her 12 year old daughter, Shirley Simmons a resident of Pahokee were both dead when their bodies were recovered about 12 noon.

An eye witness who notified the patrol that the car driven by the colored woman, traveling west, skidded 147 ft., hit a telephone pole and careened into the Palm Beach Canal. Trooper Thomas said the woman apparently lost control of the car and skidded on the wet road as there were no cars near the accident at that time.

The bodies were taken to Stevens Funeral Home, West Palm Beach.

Henry Earwood

Mr. Earwood was submitted by the Belle Glade Jaycees to State Jaycee Headquarters.

In the past ten years 488 fatalities were incurred as a result of vehicles running into canals.

Five hundred deprived children, looking forward to a successful school experience, will enter first grades in the Glades area on August 30, after having completed an eight weeks preschool program. Project Head Start, the children in a well-planned school day provided enriching experiences for the children and the Palm Beach County Board of Education.

The children were taught by twenty-eight professional teachers assisted by teacher aides in eight centers in that area. Mrs. Ruth Irvin, Director, Gove Elementary, Gladeview, Lake Shore, Oseola, Everglades, and East Lake. Many children were transported to the centers by school bus.

Mr. Ruth Irvin was the coordinator of the project in this area, one of three areas in Palm Beach County. Area Supervisors also assisted. The program weekly workshops were held for the teachers with consultants from Florida Atlantic

The children were given readiness and mental readiness tests. The testing will be given to each child's teacher as he enters first grade. The teachers visited in the homes of the children and also had conferences with the parents at school in order to bring about a close report between home and school.

Adult classes in which the parents were involved were held in some of the centers.

Documentation slides were made of Project Head Start by Mrs. Irvin and Mrs. Mosley during the eight weeks of the program.

Mr. Pauline Meyland, a representative from the Washington office of Project Head Start and Mr. Carleton K. Mead, Palm Beach County director of the program, visited the local centers on August 9. Mr. Meyland expressed overall approval of the program and noted especially the ability that teachers displayed in providing creative experiences in a warm and friendly atmosphere for the children.

Mr. Irvin states that the great success of Project Head Start in this area was due in great part to the cooperation of the teachers and their willingness to share and demonstrate in the weekly workshops the activities that they used successfully in their classrooms.

Street rumors that the group would request permissive authority for police to use force against Negroes who "assault" the law and ridicule their efforts to maintain order, did not materialize into verbal requests.

Sessions might have weighed on one side, despite the apparent illegality of that suggestion.

"We recognize the problem," says the Mayor, "and will give it serious consideration and deliberation."

Canal Plunge Kills Three Fourth Dies

Three children and one woman are dead as a result of a car leaving State Road No. 80, and into a canal near 20-mile bend Monday. Three were pronounced dead immediately and the fourth, a child, died after arriving at the hospital.

The driver of the car, Florence Barber who survived is the mother of the three children, June Ethel 11 and Jeffrey Lucile Todd of 532 SW Ave E, Belle Glade is the older victim of the canal.

According to reports, the Barber car was passing along the canal bank when William J. Matheson, during a rain storm when it spun out of control and plunged into the paralleling canal.

Mr. Matheson, a Martin County teacher, aided by passers-by pulled the victims from the submerged car. Mouth to mouth resuscitation revived the boy, who died later at the hospital. His health and functioning of the children before the opening of school.

Lost A Coon?

If you've lost a pet coon and want it back on the police will be glad to get rid of it.

Some Negroes identified the police that a coon, apparently five or six months old had been accustomed to being treated as a favored member of some family, for he had invaded the citizens' homes and had its ways in and on everything within reach.

At the station the coon disliked very much being tied up and often turned loose, making itself at home anywhere, drinks from the coffee cups, or anything else standing around.

Call at the station and identify the coon, and its yours.

Jobs for Disgruntled Workers

By Donald I. Rogers

NEW YORK — Why should nearly five per cent of the American labor force be unemployed when there are so many jobs available? The question has plagued labor experts for years, and they had hoped this year to have a government-financed study of the problem. Now, however, it appears that because of organized labor's opposition, and the Labor Department's acquiescence, the study will never be made.

The AFL-CIO has opposed a study of job vacancies in the belief that the findings, when made public, would be used by economic conservatives to advocate a return against government spending to create more jobs. Labor leaders contend that even though there may be enough jobs to go around, they may not be the kind of jobs people really want or are suited for, and that the government should continue its activities in creating new jobs for disgruntled workers, as far as the unemployed.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz is going along with the AFL-CIO policy. The labor organization's strenuous opposition is an appropriation of $2.5 million for the Bureau of Employment Security and another $330,000 for the Bureau of Labor Statistics which would have been used to study job vacancies, and accordingly the House knocked the appropriation out of the Labor Department's budget.

Now that the budget is before the Senate Appropriations subcommittee, Senator Wirtz has a chance to ask that the appropriation be restored. He has not done so, and aides say he doesn't want to do so because he doesn't want any counterproductive legislation in requested funds to finance neighborhood youth centers.

Mr. Wirtz chooses to continue treating the ills rather than to learn what may be causing them.

Speaking at a labor dinner in Kansas City on June 23, Mr. Wirtz said: "I am not sure that we are correct in counting a person employed when he is primarily engaged to be filling one of the jobs which is available, but when that person is not doing what he or she is capable of doing. We are starting to wonder whether we did not make maximum employment in terms of its full use of the capacity of the potential of every individual in the country and not just in terms of what the system calls for."

I for one go along with his thinking. It was not meant to be a typewriter for a living. I was intended for better things.

I think I should be a movie producer like Otto Preminger. On second thought, I'd prefer to be just a plain, ordinary oil company president, one who is required to play much golf with customers.

Mr. Wirtz, though, was setting the scene in Kansas City, just in case someone should insist on a study of job openings and it should be found that unemployment isn't as severe a problem as we had been led to believe.

Almost every expert in the manpower field insists that there is an acute need for a reliable set of figures on job openings. The poll was made recently by the presidential committee in 1962.

The two Labor Department bureaus which would have received the appropriations, had recommended to organize labor's present plan of making pilot job vacancy studies in 16 cities twice a year. They state that to compile accurate data they should make the surveys in 150 communities three times a year.

What the labor leaders resist, specifically, is the establishment of a national commission which would give the number of job openings in the nation. Mr. Wirtz, apparently, is willing to let the public be kept ignorant in this matter.

Good Eating

Most of us take the good things of life pretty much for granted. They are available when and where we want them, and we give little thought to all the problems that must be met and solved to make that possible.

For instance, take meat. Whatever the cut and kind you want, all you have to do is drop into the nearest market and pick it out. And the bulk of people undoubtedly think that assuring an unfailing supply is a comparatively simple matter.

The meat industry, in all its ramifications, is a complex and enormously efficient national asset. It deals with a perishable product which must be moved without delay. Types of meat that are in strong demand in some areas find relatively few buyers in others, and distribution practices must be geared accordingly. Consumers demand top quality and that want must be met. Seasonal considerations must be met. Most of the meat is produced west of the Mississippi, while most of it is consumed to the east, and the industry's intricate mechanisms must be adjusted to that fact.

It's interesting to note that the theme of the next annual meeting of the American Meat Institute is to be "Forces Shaping Your Business." These forces include government and science, and a knowledgeable list of speakers will discuss them. That succinct piece of meat that will grace your table tonight is made possible by an industry which is always in a state of change and betterment, and which must constantly meet the broad problems and influences of our time.

COMMERCIAL RECORD
Monday, August 2, 1965

There are those who oppose any criticism of the free press in the United States. Yet nothing is more important than to keep both of the estate to critically analyze the trends in their profession.

In that spirit, believing strongly in a free press, one must nevertheless express concern at the current trend among reporters.

A good example is the treatment accorded astronauts and their families during the recent Gemini 4 flight. This was as the result of the influence of the metropolitan press, in which headlines are usually sensational. Headlines such as "Everything must be suspenseful," reporters for U.S. press services and large dailies seek to make everything the greatest.

Reporters camp on astronauts' wives. They sit in the living room and with wives and, if permitted, would follow them into the bathroom. They sit in the car and off into space, it was not enough for them to report soberly and seriously that the wives were relieved.

One was quoted during the fight as saying her husband was "having a ball." Another quote had a wife saying it was all "a ride." Another press dispatch began with the headline "The 'happiest family in the world today' was that of one of the astronauts." This is juvenile nonsense.

The sober truth, seriously reported in a good newspaper, is that the teenagers can carry on in the tradition of their elders. We are referring to those youngsters in cities and towns all along the Mississippi and Arkansas rivers who trooped out to help save their homes and towns from sure disaster. They put in countless hours bagging sand and helping to shore up shaky dikes.

The office, in the case of the recent Gemini flight, was to make families sound silly, and to reflect upon the entire country.

The press did its duty. True reports of the real state of things are apparently not enough today. It is all colored to make "the greatest" reading.

LBJ Pays A Debt

Washington Daily News
August 2, 1965

BY LYLE C. WILSON

President Johnson has made a down payment on his debt to organized labor and shortly will pay off the mortgage altogether.

He can burn the mortgage when the Senate takes away from all 50 states the right every state has enjoyed since the Constitution became effective to permit or to form a compulsory unionism within its borders.

LBJ's first down payment to labor was made when the House voted 221 to 203 to outlaw right-to-work laws in 19 states. This abolition of a right possessed by all unions was the first step toward unionism as accomplished in repeal of part of the 1947 Taft-Hartley Labor Act. Repealed was section 14B which guaranteed to the states the right to forbid compulsory unionism.

Section 14-B was included in the original Taft-Hartley Act. It guaranteed workers the right of association. In this instance, it guaranteed a choice of whether to join or not to join a union. Nineteen states now have right-to-work laws which will be scrapped when the Senate adopts the 14B repealer and LBJ signs it.

Unions have made repeal of section 14B their No. 1 demand on Mr. Johnson's behalf as a Texas legislator. Negroes have also been foreseen that he would march to the White House and have urgent need for union and Negro political support.

During his 1948 Senate campaign, Dallas (Tex.) News quoted Mr. Johnson as having said on Aug. 10 in a campaign speech:

"I have never sought nor do I seek now the support of any labor bosses dictating to free men anywhere."

The News quoted him 10 days later as having said there were only 2 great issues before Texans and the nation at that time. He added:

"One is how we should bow our necks to labor dictatorship or how we should soften the anti-communist Taft-Hartley bill, the other is the question of foreign policy."

Uncle Dan Says

ed on account of the Congress was now reducing the tax on new cars by 5 percent.

Clem Webster was again plain, said it was a good idea, full of fun from top to bottom. For instant, argued Clem, who was going to say when a car was ready for burial? He allowed as how his old 1952 model Chevy didn't have but 150,000 miles on it and looked like a kid who was just out-and-about-and-battered-down, said Clem, but he announced he would go all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court afore he'd allow anybody to bury it.

Furthermore, Clem wanted to know who was going to perform the burial ceremony, the local state or Federal Government? And if this wasn't problem enough, Clem claimed they could be a lot of tent cities in the U.S. if he was right.

The Senator was sworn in, on since Lyndon was sworn in, all the fellers was mighty impressed.

Engineers Ask For Bids On L-38

Construction of an 8.8-mile-long levee from the Broward-Palm Beach County line southeasterly in Broward County and parallel to U.S. Highway 27 is planned by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as a part of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project.

District Engineer Col R. P. Tabb said bid will be opened Sept. 9 on construction of Levee 38, which forms additional boundary between Conservation Areas II and III of the flood control project. Levee 38 east in Palm Beach County now serves as a levee for Conservation Area II on the north side of North New River Canal. Construction of L-38 will prevent wind-driven tides in Conservation Area III from causing flooding when water levels are high in the reservoir. Estimated cost of Levee 38 is $1.5 million and is made from material obtained from a borrow canal adjacent to the dike.

Estimated to cost $400,000, the contract will also call for construction of water control structures (S-150) in Levee 5, which will be a 5-barrel, 84-inch corrugated metal pipe culvert with a manually controlled slide gate. In addition a single 72-inch-diameter culvert with a manually-operated slide gate will be constructed in L-38.

Successful bidder on the work will be required to complete the levee within 215 calendar days and the control structures within 120 days, Colonel Tabb said.

Happens every day. Many people insuring with "careful driver" companies to save on the premium find themselves involved in an accident. Later, after all claims have been paid, their policies are cancelled because they are no longer "careful drivers".

Regular companies then hesitate to insure people who have had their policies cancelled and folks find themselves without insurance.

Why take this chance? You won't if you buy your insurance from a local, independent agent. See us!

"I CAN'T GET THROUGH TO HER"
by Margie Blake, Carnation Teen Committee

A popular theory has it that popularity between 16 and 17 years old is on the decline—phone every single minute—except for brief spells at night when the phone rings for eating and sleeping.

"That's not fair, is it? But if you have a particular boy friend, (or say right out) that you dash on the phone as soon as you can in the hope that he'll call back, the place is incommunicado except when you're out, then it's time to start thinking about more bargaining power if you act before the boom lowers."

Parents, however, are leaving soon to make their youngster's going away from home. It seems a short time ago that he was scooting around on a tricycle — how can he have developed enough wisdom to get along without his parents to help him?

Mrs. Mary Todd, Palm Beach County Extension Home Economist, says this pattern of thinking is perfectly natural to teenagers.

No amount of denial will dispose of it. However, it need not interfere with their realization that their son is actually a young adult.

At home, your brothers and sisters won't take kindly to being told the phone always tied up by someone else. Parents, business calls might be important, and there's no time for a long explanation.

At school, your parents will take kindly to telling you to start dinner!

Should this be the case, despite the fact that you've had Little Cupps, quick to make and good to eat.

In a bowl, combine 2/3 cup (small can) undiluted Cat-nation evaporated milk, 1/2 pound ground beef, 2/3 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1/4 cup chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Mix lightly, fill muffin cups 2/3 full and bake at 375° F. about 20 minutes. Makes 8 servings. Meat Loaf.

Up to now, we've been talking about the girl who might want to tell Mother to meet the 7:10 instead of the 7:30 bus. What about the boy who wants to tell you to start dinner?

Sermon Of The Week

By Rev. L. H. Gilliam,
First Church of God, PBG

"LIFE AT ITS BEST"

The basic theory of communism is that life will be as best when all men have the same privileges, opportunities and equality. This theory also represents the old idea of the great society that has been revived in recent years. The exponents of the great society seem to feel that if proper medical care can be provided for all people, that if everyone can have equal opportunity for a good education, and if poverty can be controlled, then life will be at its best.

None of us would deny that there is considerable room for improvement in our society today. We need better medical care, better educational privileges and the poor people certainly deserve a better status of living. But even if the ideal society could be attained, would this bring life at its best?

Life is a struggle! We work and dream and dream and work for the time when retirement and comfort can be attained. But does retirement with a stable income bring life at its best? Don't many of our problems still remain and our aches and pains even increase? Of course, each of us have our own home-made remedy as to what ingredients are needed to achieve life at its best. Some of us saddle heavy responsibilities on ourselves thinking this brings happiness and contentment! Others of us just try to get by. The majority feels that good health, financial security and good government will give us the good life! But most of this adds up to materialism and selfishness.

What about discipline? What has happened to this old work horse of life? It is all but missing at the grass roots of our society today. And because of this, our chickens are coming home to roost, namely, confusion, frustrations & juvenile delinquency! While most of us are out building our community life through social and civic organizations our children are tearing down our society because of lack of parental discipline.

We have given our children ice cream, candy, record hops, and hot rods instead of old fashioned discipline and we have neglected to teach them the basic principles of honesty, respect, integrity and their responsibility to themselves, others and God. More discipline in the home and less time in community affairs would certainly do more to improve our community than what most of us think! And I'm certain it would reduce the window breaking, the stealing, the walking the streets in gangs and the illegitimate birth rate that is jumping in leaps and bounds.

Let's face it, our modern approach to life may be helping us physically and comfort-wise but it is destroying our very inner self! Many people don't even know what they live for and they are people with wealth. What we need to do is return to the basic teachings of Jesus to get a new sense of direction, a new starting point and a purpose for living!

Who did Jesus mean when he said, "He that finds his life shall lose it; and he that loses his life for my sake shall find it?" (Mt. 10: 38-39). Was he talking in riddles or was he rather stating a basic philosophy of life?

Didn't he mean that if a person really wanted to live life at its best that he must LOSE his life in God and others? Only when we can discard our selfish motives, attitudes, and desires and give our allegiance to God through the New Birth experience of John 3:3, then we have found life at its best! Millions have done it down through the years! Their physical comfort may have been reduced and their status in life all but unknown, but they have found life at its best through service to others and to God!

TODAY'S MEDITATION

Chepper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read II Corinthians 5:1-10

We labour, that — we may be accepted of him. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ (II Corinthians 5:9-10).

In 1579, Lord Astley prayed: "O Lord, Thou knowest how busy we must be this day, if we forget Thee do not Thou forget us, for Christ's sake. Amen."

Our day's labor may keep us from much active person-and-Christ communing, but how about our leisure time? Spare moments are segments of life most fruitful for good or evil.

Leisure time proves profitable if set aside to read God's Word, to praise Him, to learn of Him. It can be a time of companionship through prayer — a time to speak, to listen, to rest in Christ, to concentrate on His goodness.

In yet other times of leisure we may get our assignments from Christ of work to do. He brings to our remembrance those for whom we should pray and gives us opportunities to witness for Him.

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, may we give Thee the same place in our hearts that Thou hast in the universe. Direct our labor, and our leisure, into Christ-approved channels. We thank Thee for daily opportunities of being useful to others. Through us may they see Christ. In His name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

We cannot make a moment, but we can use each one profitably.

"WHAT'S WHAT YOU THINK"

What a disappointment! You had a tremendous drive, the perfect chip shot, and a brilliant putt; then your ball stopped a hairsbreadth from the edge of the cup. The birdie you thought was yours didn't materialize.

Of course, it's only a game; it doesn't really matter. But it sure does make you feel so trivial. What if something really big passes you by? Suppose you don't get that promotion, your son's scholarship is given to someone else, an important client changes his mind, or the stock market wipes out your investment? Where do you turn? Where do you find strength to meet life's disappointments?

It's the Church that stands constant. Religious may shift and change but your Church stands firm. The truths and inspiration you find there give meaning, purpose, and stability to your life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character. It is the source of the highest house of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, no nation can stand. Men and women of all ages, which needs moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and support your local church daily.
